

What fails is the kind of market, not the kind of institution

The same three institutions, across the full price range. On the left they track fair at every level; on the right all three break, and they break together.

